

COMMUNITY FOUNDATION

Rose Community Foundation Insight Series

What's On Your Plate?

Is your food farm-to-table? What is community-supported agriculture? How are schools incorporating locally sourced healthy produce into cafeterias?

We are in the midst of a food movement that emphasizes the use of sustainable, locally grown foods. Learn how philanthropy is engaged in this movement and how you can get involved.

Michael Buchenau, executive director of Denver Urban Gardens, and Krista Roberts, president of Slow Food Denver, will provide an overview of collaborative approaches to make healthy, local food accessible to low-income and vulnerable people in our community.

See sustainable food principles in action while you experience a delicious lunch at Fuel Cafe.
